

50-State Surveys and Regulatory Compliance

White and Williams lawyers help clients – particularly those conducting business across multiple states – understand and navigate the complex regulatory landscapes governing numerous industries. Our team has developed a systematic and efficient framework for identifying the varying laws across all 50 states, as well as federal and industry-specific regulatory bodies.

We have prepared extensive 50-state surveys for clients including a Fortune 25 internet advertising company addressing professional/trade licensing, insurance, operational and advertising requirements across more than 70 verticals. We also assist clients with ensuring the features of their online advertising products comply with federal laws and regulations, including the Federal Wire Act and the Federal Trade Commission Act, as well as state advertising and practice laws applicable to a variety of professionals. We have particular experience advising clients on industries that encompass more than one regulated trade and may therefore be subject to numerous – and sometimes overlapping – licensing, operational and insurance requirements.

As a result of our experience conducting 50-state surveys, our team has developed relationships with numerous state and local licensing agencies across the country and is particularly skilled in collaborating with agency staff and navigating the challenges of interpreting state and local licensing laws and regulations.

Our body of research knowledge and comprehensive analysis encompasses a variety of licensing, insurance, operational and advertising requirements relating to:
